

DOGS – PUG LYING

Underglaze hand painted

Design: Theodor Kärner, 1905

height 13 cm · product no. 01.030

A dog's temperament and specific character traits generally become apparent when he is still very young. We could watch puppies discovering the world for hours. That is most probably what Theodor Kärner thought too, who worked at Nymphenburg from 1905 until 1918. This reclining pug embodies one of his favourite motifs: Portraying young dogs. He is elegantly resting one paw on top of the other, while his dreamy gaze is focused on something in his imagination.
